Safety and Compliance Testing

Our fine arts and crafts products have been used by early childhood educators, young children and their families since 1985.

Our concern for the safety and welfare of children is the basis for everything we do; we want to support children as they develop, grow and learn by providing the best, safest products possible.

Product safety is a top priority and we only offer products that comply with safety standards in place in the national markets we ship to. For the European Union product safety compliance with the EN standard applies where required, and these products carry the CE mark.

To give us reliable and objective safety compliance information on our products, we utilize one of the largest and most respected independent testing laboratories in the world.

Classifying and sorting involves finding things that are the same, or alike, and grouping them by specific traits or attributes. For example, a bunch of animals can be grouped based on their colours or type of animal. You can have young children classify anything, including blocks, leaves, plates, or toy cars. Once they have classified items, children can compare items further to learn more specific similarities and differences between items, both within and between matched groups

This simple transformation from hand puppet to holiday keepsake only takes a few steps!
Before You Begin:

You will need hand puppets for each child to decorate. Stuff paper towels, old material scraps, or stuffing in the head of the puppet for a fuller head. You will also need materials for decorating: gold and silver doilies, sparkly pipe cleaners, glitter and/or metallic paint, ribbon for hair, rhinestones, gems and paintbrushes.

STEP 1

First, have the children paint the puppets with gold or silver glitter paint or metallic paint. There's no right way to do it, encourage the kids to use their imaginations!

STEP 2

Let dry.

STEP 5

Have the children glue heart-shaped gold or silver doilies for wings. Another option for the wings is to trace the students' hands onto metallic paper, cut them out and glue those onto the back of the puppet.

STEP 3

Then have children glue on rick rack or any wide band ribbon with craft glue along the bottom of the puppet for embellishment.

STEP 4

When ribbon dries, have children use permanent markers or paint tubes or any tool to draw a face on top.
